THE WILL OF THE PEOPLE

—IS—

The Law of the Land.

Our "competitors" were waited upon some time ago by reporters of the mercantile agencies to give their "opinion" of the stability and solidity of the People's Store. They were unanimous in their verdict—

"That the People's Store was not worthy of credit; a rotten craft upon mercantile waters, and warned parties dealing with it to be cautious. It was a very bad and dangerous risk."

And so we were reported when we first unfurled the banner of the "People's Store" under the glorious skies of the City of the Angels.

BUT TIME CHANGES ALL THINGS.

Those who ventured to "opine" were masters of the field, sack and situation, and cropping out from all sides one could see big profits, high prices and ruinous expenses.

The public was tired of these extortionate charges and high-handed double dealers. They demanded a reform, and massed themselves for protection when our little bark sailed out into the stream of competition, with

One Price! Cash Only! Plain Figures!

And the Lowest Living Prices!

Flying at its mast head. It was tested, found not wanting, and ever since has been the keeper and custodian of the people's confidence and good will.

It was like unto the problem of to-day. They were found to be reaping a benefit without returning one, and it was not long ere it was said to them, as it is being said to the Chinee to-day—

THEY MUST GO.

Many of those who were prominent jurors in their celebrated verdict have gone—out of business. Some of their own accord, others of their creditors. Some have supplicated us for positions to keep themselves and their babes alive. Others are going because the public has withdrawn its patronage from them and they have almost absorbed the "fat" of former days. A few still others will go because their prices are so high, their stocks so old and their methods of business so ancient that old age will soon shake the little vitality there is left in them.

But the People's Store still continues flying its self-same streamer from its top-gallant, and with that modesty and forbearance that has marked its sturdy growth, simply asks a continuance of the public confidence, and a renewed expression of its appreciation.

Gen. Naglee, a California pioneer and one of the best known men in the state, is dead.

Sovereignty has been put to an odd use in Dresden. Falling on a small shaft, the mere name so upward draught of air which sets a fan in motion, and that, in turn, winds a clock.

The Democratic editors of Ohio have decided to make John Sherman President. If they can be induced to keep on shoving him for two years longer they will succeed.

The sudden death of J. H. Seymour, a leading merchant of this city, and a man of great probity and force of character, is much to be regretted. He was cut off just when appeared to be the very climax of his usefulness. Los Angeles has lost in him a valuable citizen.

The Supervisors yesterday pondered the request of the anti-Chinese agitators to appoint delegates to the convention at Sacramento on the 10th. At last two of the Board felt that such appointment would be clearly outside the Board's power; and all agreed that if delegates were sent the county would not pay their bills.

The Philadelphia Record hopes that no unseemly public strife may break out between the President and Senate, even though the matter at stake be so important as offices. The right course is a little in that of Daniel in the lion's den. Daniel not giving a darn for the lions, and vice versa. From the lions Daniel will be readily distinguishable by the green cotton umbrella of civil service reform.

The case of the degraded woman sent before Judge Cheney's court furnishes an example of the ends subserved by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. She has been keeping up her seven-year old boy in delicate familiarity with her life of shame; and now the society is moving to take the child from her unfit care, and put it in safe hands. It is a work which all clean parents sympathize.

Tom Hon. Thomas R. Hudd, who was recently nominated by the Democrats of the Fifth Congressional District of Illinois to fill out the unexpired term in Congress of the late Joseph Hutchins, has long been a conspicuous figure in Wisconsin politics. He has served many terms in both Houses of the State Legislature, has been a member of the Board of Regents of the State University, and has always been prominent in the Democratic party. He is an able lawyer, a fine public speaker, and will not take a back seat in the House of Representatives.

Among several days of cold-toed toting along the edge, the railroads seem to have jumped right in, regardless of whether the fellows on the bank had sometime intertangle and knot their clothing. The presence in the city of several leading officials of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe and Atlantic and Pacific railroads; and the announcement by the transcontinental route composed of those lines that it will undersell all competitors in fares to the effete East—and this on the heels of a tremendous cut in first-class rates by the Southern Pacific—seems to indicate a rough-and-tumble phase of the rate-war, in which almost any extreme of cutting may be looked for.

AMUSEMENTS.

THE PAREPA CONCERT.—If any demonstration were needed of the fact that a Los Angeles public is willing to encourage home talent it would be found in the audience which literally packed the Opera House last night on the occasion of Signor Rudio's first operatic entertainment in this city. From the rising of the curtain till the final notes of the Trovatore rang through the theatre there was no cessation in the enthusiasm of the delighted audience.

A quartette from Rigoletto, sung by Mrs. E. F. Gilbert, Miss I. Wiseman, Mr. Gardner and Sig. Farini, opened the programme, after which Miss Lillian Blauvelt sang the cavatina, "Robert toi que j'aime," and for an encore a lullaby song, in both of which selections her highly-cultivated and perfect method obtained special advantage. The "Flower Song," in Faust, and an encore, "Who's at My Window?" by Miss M. Cowper, were rendered in a manner indicating great promise. Mr. W. Gardner followed with "The Maiden of Penang" very pleasantly and Sig. Adess, "I Pescatori," was then rendered by Mrs. Gilbert and Signor Rudio with the most delightfully rendered duet which was heard during the evening. The piano solo of Miss Cowper was heartily encored. He is a very fine player, and in spite of the fact that his selections were not calculated to display his skill at its best, he had remark his fine phrasing and the ability with which his crescendos and diminuendos were managed.

The first part closed with a scene from Lucia di Lammermoor by Miss Nellie Carter. This young lady's voice was always sweet, but has greatly improved in power of execution and her rendition of this extremely difficult selection was redemanded by the audience.

The first operatic scenes in costume was in the opera of Martha, with the Misses Blauvelt and Iris Wiseman and W. C. Stone in the characters. It was charmingly sung and acted, and the young ladies, who are both well-known vocalists here, distinguished themselves with new honors on the occasion. The orchestra is deserving of mention for its fine execution in this opera.

The closing, came a scene from Traviata, by Mrs. Gilbert, by far the most artistic and delightful bit of the evening. To say that they captured the house is to express in a very slight degree, their manifest success. She has an exceedingly sweet voice, a pure soprano, and a facility of execution which, combined with the dramatic force and abandon thrown into the part by the gem of the whole programme. The closing selection from Trovatore rendered Signor Farini, Messrs. Jeffery and Gardner and the Misses Winston and Wiseman to best advantage. It was splendidly given. Miss Winston has been before the public in former entertainments on previous occasions and she amply maintained her reputation. Miss Hance has a very finely trained voice and also exceptional dramatic ability. Of Signor Farini there can be but few words. His noble voice was heard to with the highest pleasure, and he commanded the admiration of the audience. His fiery and impassioned acting also made the scene life-like and helped the success of this selection.

Signor Farini has reason to be proud of the fact that during his comparatively short stay here he has been able thus to demonstrate his ability as a singer, and in a manner which could not fail to carry conviction to all of the large audience present last night.

The floral offerings of the evening were very elaborate. In addition to a profusion there were some set pieces of great beauty. Mrs. Gilbert received a large decoration in orange blossoms and chrysanthemums. Signor Farini received a beautiful harp

CAPITAL AND LABOR

The Conflict Seems to Be Broadening.

THE NEW YORK STRIKES CONCLUDED.

But the Mischief is Now to Pay with Western Railroads—A Railroad Boycotted.

Associated Press Dispatches to the Times.

NEW YORK, March 5.—At 6 a. m. this morning the grand "tie up" of all surface lines of the city took place by order of the Executive Board of the Protective Association. No cars are running.

Police Superintendent Murray has received the intelligence that the committees which met to consider strike troubles have adjourned, and that matters have been adjusted; that the men will resume work at 2 o'clock this afternoon on all lines in this city and Brooklyn.

President Lamb, of the Dry Dock Railroad Company was notified, but he decided to do nothing without the calling of a meeting of Directors. This is to be done during the day, when it will be decided whether it will be worth while to make efforts to run cars. A few policemen were sent over from Forty-ninth street station, but their services were not needed, for everything was quiet. The following dispatches were received at the police headquarters this morning:

4:15 A. M., TWELFTH PRECINCT.—Cars have all stopped running here. There is no trouble, and most of the men went away from the stable as soon as through. Those who remained were orderly and quiet.

TWENTY-EIGHTH PRECINCT. — Cars have all laid up. Very few people are about the stable and public places. No trouble, and everybody quiet.

THIRTIETH PRECINCT.—One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street and Eighth avenue. No cars running in this precinct. The men all left as soon as through work. No crowds around. Public places all closed. Police Inspector Byrnes, who has had reason to believe that there is to be an incursion of thieves from the neighboring cities of Philadelphia, Jersey City and Albany, has taken measures to prevent their entrance into the city. He has manned the ferries and railroad stations with detectives, who will send them back to their homes. If they persist in coming into the city, they will be locked up.

Inspector Byrnes said this morning that he expected to-day would be a second day of draft riots. At police headquarters early this morning it was said that, among those who are to be arrested on warrants issued last night are Chairman O'Donnell, of the Employés' Protective Association, and the other members of the executive committee—Best, Wallace, Hughes and Merrill. It is said that they will not be arrested unless they commit some overt act to-day, and then they will be accused of inciting to violence. It was said at police headquarters that the presidents of the car companies were holding a general meeting this morning, and it was the general opinion that they will advise Mr. Richardson and the directors of the Dry Dock, East Broadway and Battery railroad companies to accede to the demands of the men.

A COMPROMISE.

Commissioner O'Donnell, after his consultation with the Executive Committee, took a cab and went over to Brooklyn, where he met President Richardson at the office of the Atlantic avenue line, together with the directors. A proposition was submitted to the Commissioner consisting in the following resolution and directed to Joseph O'Donnell, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Empire United Protective Association:

Resolved, That the Atlantic-avenue Railroad of Brooklyn will agree to pay men at the rate of $2 per day for twelve hours as a day's work for conductors and drivers, including a half hour allowed for dinner, and, after our cars are running, to submit all questions in dispute between employés to Commissioner O'Donnell. It is agreed that the Dry Dock, East Broadway and Battery lines be included in the same agreement and the Atlantic roads in Brooklyn.

[Signed] W. J. RICHARDSON, President.

On receiving this document O'Donnell at once returned to New York and went to the Central Labor Union Hall on Third Eighth avenue, where the Executive Committee was in session. He submitted the proposition to them and it was accepted promptly. Delegates from different roads were started at once to notify the men to be ready to start cars at 2 p. m.

Down stairs, in the large hall, the strikers were in session. Graham announced the terms of the agreement amid a breathless hush in the room. When he had finished there was a deep, long breath of relief. A man threw his hat up, and a yell broke out which shook the building. The meeting broke up and the men started for work.

Joseph O'Donnell said to reporters, "All will start at 2 p. m."

The proposition from Richardson was accepted. Commissioner O'Donnell will be arbitrator, and we approve the choice. It is a great victory for us."

NOW WORK WAS RESUMED.

At 2 p. m. crowds were gathered at the East Side stables of the cross-town lines at Grand and Center streets. A messenger came running through the street and delivered a message to the officials of the company. It was an official notification that the strike was ended and that the men were ready to resume work. It was signed by the chairman of the executive committee. The stable doors were unbarred, and those on the inside understood the meaning of this and cheered. Car No. 1 rolled out of the depot and was soon adorned with new brooms and flags. It started out amid deafening cheers from the crowds. It was filled with friends of the strikers. Nobody thought of paying fare, and all the way down to the postoffice there was an ovation. The stables of Avenue B and Avenue D cars marched to the Fourteenth-street stables at 1:30 p. m., and Inspectors Byrne and Wellman were there, too. At 2:30 the doors were opened and the stablemen and hitchers marched in, took off their coats and went to work. Some non-union men who had been feeding the horses retired. It was 2:47 when a bobtail car of Avenue D line drove out into the shouting crowd and rumbled along on the first trip. Car No. 27 of Avenue B line soon followed and the normal order of things was soon restored. Car No. 1 of the Third avenue line started at 2:45, and was attended along the route by shouts and cheers. Car No. 16, on the Sixth avenue line, was the first over that road, and this, as on all other lines, as they one by one resumed, was attended by shouting crowds. After the strike had ended many of the Brooklyn drivers and conductors presented themselves at the offices of Mr. Richardson in that city, but that gentleman thought it not worth while to start until to-morrow. Obstructions placed upon the tracks were removed, however, during the forenoon, and about 5 o'clock the Fifth and Seventh avenue cars began running. They were followed before 6 o'clock by cars of all other lines, and to-night the street car travel of Brooklyn is restored to its ordinary condition.

THE STRIKING FEVER GOING WEST.

ST. LOUIS, March 5.—The executive committee of the Knights of Labor are now holding daily meetings in this city. For some time past J. J. McGarry, Judge Advocate of the Assembly, has been with the executive committee at nearly all meetings, while all proceedings were held with closed doors. It is said that the threatened Gould system strike has been under discussion. It was currently reported at a late hour last night that a cypher message had been received from Marshall, Texas, directing the men in St. Louis to precipitate a crisis, but as a moment's notice and signal for an extension of the strike to this end of the line. A strike is generally expected.

A BOYCOTT AGAINST THE MALLORY LINE.

GALVESTON, March 5.—At a meeting of the local trade assemblies, which adjourned after midnight last night, it was determined that the Mallory boycott should be immediately enforced against the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fé and the Missouri Pacific roads. An order will at once be issued that every Knight of Labor working on any of those lines may refuse to handle freight consigned to or from the Mallory Company. This will bring matters to a crisis, as the roads will be compelled to discharge the men who refuse to handle boycotted freight, and then a general strike will probably follow.

A special to the News from Dallas says: The strike on the Texas Pacific Railroad at this point thus far has no appreciable effect on business. The attempt made by a citizens' committee at Marshall to effect a settlement by arbitration, completely failed. The three days allowed by Receivers Broom and Sheldon for the strikers to resume work expired yesterday, and the receivers have prepared a circular which will be issued to-day, notifying the men who refused to work that they are no longer in the employ of the company, and warning strikers not to congregate about station warehouses and try to intimidate those who are willing to work. The circular says that if men persist in such intimidation, the receivers will ask help from the United States Court.

TROUBLES IN TEXAS.

NEW ORLEANS, March 5.—Governor Sheldon this afternoon received a dispatch from Governor Brown from Dallas, Tex., notifying him that last night about a hundred masked men broke into the round house at Big Springs and disabled several engineers, removing from them portions of machinery, which they secreted, so that all traffic west of Colorado must be discontinued. That, at Fort Worth, a company had succeeded in supplying the places of strikers to such an extent as to enable it to resume traffic at that point, and that they are applying for military assistance at Fort Worth and Toyah, in accordance with the order of Judge Sardee. Col. E. B. Wheelock, manager of the New Orleans division of the road, states that the company are now employing skilled mechanics to go to Marshall for the purpose of obtaining a sufficient number of men to keep the engines in repair. He says that there has been no dissatisfaction expressed by employes of his division, and that no trouble is apprehended on this end of the line.

BOYCOTTED CARS.

DESOTO, Mo., March 5.—A general order by the Executive Board of the Knights of Labor of the Gould Southwest System, has been received, boycotting all Texas and Pacific and New Orleans and Pacific cars on account of troubles at Fort Worth, and the order is put into effect here. No violence or intimidation is used, but, as cars come in, train men are requested not to handle them farther, and the request is immediately complied with and they are side-tracked.

ORGANIZATION AT SPRINGFIELD.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 5.—A committee, representing different Knights of Labor organizations in the city, held a meeting this forenoon for the purpose organizing an executive board. To this board will be referred all questions bearing on the situation. From an interview with Whitely, published yesterday, it appears that arbitration is out of the question; and, while nothing is said, it is very probable that a boycott will be ordered. Trains are watched for incoming workmen, but few have arrived. There is perfect order, and no indications of violence.

MINERS' STRIKE IN COLORADO.

DENVER, Col., March 5.—It is reported that 600 miners of the Marshall Coal Company at Erie struck this morning on account of the company reducing wages from $1.22 per ton to 95 cents. No trouble is at present anticipated.

ANOTHER CRANK.

He is a Wild Shooter in the Paris Bourse.

PARIS, March 5.—Peronnier, the soldier who, by firing his revolver in the Chamber of Deputies on the 25th of February, forced the State to take notice of his and grievance, has already had an imitator. While business was at its height this afternoon in the Paris Bourse, a strange man in the gallery drew attention by making apparently aimless demonstrations. Subsequently he took a bottle containing an explosive liquid from his pocket and poured it down the shoulders of the broker upon the floor of the exchange, crying out as he did so, "Vive anarchie." The bottle struck no one, remained intact, and made no explosion. A few spectators who were interrupted in their observations by the man's conduct, swore at him and asked why the police did not remove him. Then a revolver was fired in the midst of three times down towards the main floor. He had the gallery to himself, and continued to brandish his revolver in the face of the crowd. Tremendous excitement reigned for a while in the exchange and business was suspended. The disturber was soon seized and thrown down stairs, but not until he too soon, as the crowd, when they recovered from their panic, sought the man, with cries to kill him. The man is evidently a crank of long glass.

The prisoner declares that he is an anarchist, and his intention is to follow the mission of punishing capitalists for living by the sweat of other people. Investigation shows that the revolver used was loaded with bullet cartridges. One of the bullets slightly wounded a man on the main floor.

SAN FRANCISCO.

An Audacious Chinaman — General Naglee Dead.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—The latest point raised by the Chinese in their fight against the laundry ordinance is contained in a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, filed to-day by a Chinaman who has been arrested charged with violating the laundry ordinance. The point he tried to make is that the Board of Supervisors is not a legal body, and hence its ordinances are illegal. Section 7, Article XI, of the Constitution, says that, in every consolidated city of more than 100,000 inhabitants, there shall be two boards of supervisors or houses of legislature, to consist of twelve persons each. He claims that, under this section, the Board of Supervisors of San Francisco, which consists of a single board of twelve men, is not a legally constituted body, and that, consequently, the ordinances are invalid. The writ of habeas corpus was issued and made returnable March 8.

GEN. NAGLEE DEAD.

Gen. Henry M. Naglee, a well-known Santa Clara viticulturist, died to-day at the Occidental Hotel, of neuralgia of the bowels. The illness was caused by exposure brought on by too close attendance at his canal work in San Joaquin county. Gen. Naglee was a graduate of West Point, and distinguished himself in the Mexican war and in the war of the Rebellion. He came to California with Col. Stephenson's regiment, and opened the first banking-house in the State, with Col. R. H. Simton, in this city. He leaves two daughters, one of whom is attending school in Philadelphia. The other was with him at the time of his death. Deceased was a native of Philadelphia, and was in his 73d year.

ASPHYXIATED HIMSELF.

E. L. Compton, until recently connected with Starr & Co.'s floor mills at South Vallejo, committed suicide this morning in room No. 119 of the Grand Hotel by stopping up the crevices of the doors and windows of the room and then turning on the gas. He left no information whatever as to why he took his life.

Ask Government Protection.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 5.—The anti-Chinese movement in the lumber regions of Mendocino and Sonoma counties has been so successful that it caused considerable anxiety among mill and lumber men who employ a large number of Chinese, and they drew up a petition to the authorities at Washington asking protection for their Mongol employes. Chas. Queen of Duncan's Mills, presented the petition to Marshal Franks of this city, who appointed him a deputy Marshal to act for the counties named.

A Postmaster Indicted.

DENVER, March 5.—Yesterday a federal grand jury in sessionat Pueblo found an indictment against R. W. Speers, postmaster at Denver, for alleged irregularities concerning the pre-emption law. It is charged that the indictment is an outrage, and procured by political enemies of Mr. Speers, who desire to have the United States Senate refuse his confirmation.

PREWETT.

He Tells a Very Peculiar Story.

SHOULDERING THE MURDER HIMSELF,

But He Says He Did It in Self-Defense—He Declines to Compromise His Associates.

Associated Press Dispatches to the Times.

HOLLISTER, March 5.—In the Prewett case to-day defendant Prewett was again put on the stand. He testified: "Never stayed away from home nights unless absolutely compelled to, for fear my property would be burned up. The family seemed afraid they would be poisoned or the house blown up; remember on the 17th of September about 3 o'clock I thought I would go up to Irwin's and brand a steer which I had purchased from him. Got my horse and took my shotgun with me. That was my usual custom. I then went on up Williamson cañon about a mile to where the road comes in across the ridge from Bear valley, just this side of Melindy's. Struck the main road in Bear valley, went down to Irwin's and found him chopping wood, half a mile this side of his house. Asked him where she cattle were. He said he had n't seen them since morning. I went back to the house to prepare a fire for branding, and he went across the cañon to drive the cattle up. He came back and said he could n't find them. He got his horse and he and I went down the cañon towards Willow creek to look for the cattle. About one mile down I heard Irwin's cow-bell, and went in that direction. After going a short distance I saw two or three cattle off to one side, and the rest of them some ways down the road. Irwin turned off to go after the two or three cattle, and I went on down the road after the others. About 150 yards further down I met Dr. Powers. He looked at me, and I said, 'Good day, Doctor.' He said, putting his hand back in his pocket, 'I'll fight you a duel.' I had the gun across my saddle, picked it up and told him I did not want to fight. He kept on trying to get his pistol, and I pointed the gun at him. He struck at the gun with his left hand as if to push it aside or grab it. I then fired the left barrel at him. Powers whirled around and swung us face to face. He seemed to be pulling something from his pocket. I fired another barrel as soon as I could, but the first barrel I intended only to disable him, and the second shot I intended to kill him in defense of my own life. I believed in good faith that my own life was in danger, based on reports I had heard, and my knowledge of the man's character. At the second shot Powers was on horseback. After the second shot he fell forward from his horse right where the road crosses the gulch, and then rode away and went home. I came up with Irwin about fifty or one hundred yards away, and went on with him as far as his house.

On cross-examination he testified that the killing took place about 4:30 or 5 p. m. Irwin took no part in this matter. He did not have a gun.

Q. "Did you not indulge many personsin that he would indict you for murder if you could not get bail?"

A. "I decline to answer."

Witness here stated to the court that he had taken a solemn oath never to divulge anything that would tend to implicate the others in the affair, and that no penalty the court could inflict would induce him to associate other parties with the killing.

Court adjourned till to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

A POLITICAL SCANDAL.

Another Choice Development in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, March 5.—Isaac J. Miller, a prominent Democrat of this city and ex-President of the Board of Councilmen, was called before the Senatorial Election Investigation Committee this afternoon and swore that, just before the last Ohio Legislature passed a law devolving the police department upon a board of police commissioners, John R. McLean came to his office and offered him, first, $1000, then $2000, and finally $3000, to say that he believed that the Police Commissioners would appoint better men on the police force than the Mayor would. He also offered, upon condition that he made this statement, to support him heartily for Mayor and to give him money to elect him (Miller) would himself. These propositions were not accepted. Mr. Miller is one of the most active members of the Committee of 100, a nonpartisan organization formed for the purpose of securing fair elections in this city last fall. This is the first intimation of such charges against Mr. McLean, and Mr. Miller's testimony has created a sensation. Miller was chairman of the Democratic Committee of this county during the Hayes-Tilden campaign.

He Was Sane and Was Hanged.

WINNEMUCCA, Nev., March 5.—Clarence Gray, alias Collins, was executed to-day for the murder of R. H. Scott, on Christmas Eve, 1884. Gray, who had been feigning insanity since January 24th, recovered his reason yesterday, upon being informed that there was no hope for him, as suddenly as he appeared to have lost it six weeks ago. He slept well last night, ate breakfast, made his toilet this morning, and walked to the scaffold with a steady step. He made a short speech, denying his guilt, but implicating no one else. Along county road from county line to the Azusa granted, on condition that the pipe be laid ten feet north of the south line of said road, and at least twelve inches below the surface.

On motion the Clerk was directed to notify H. T. Gardner to remove certain obstructions in roads.

Adjourned until Saturday.

Of Doubtful Divinity.

Martin Devine, the notorious wife-beater, sentenced to six months' imprisonment and $200 fine, or 200 days additional imprisonment, was brought before Judge Brunson yesterday on a writ of habeas corpus. He was represented by H. H. Smith and Mr. Richardson, while the interests of the people were attended to by Assistant City Attorney Kelly. The attempt to secure Devine's release failed. Owing, however, to a blunder by the Mayor's clerk, who neglected to enter the indictment that in default of $200 fine Devine must serve additional time in jail to that amount at $1 per day, the prisoner will get only the six months part of his sentence.

Shipping News.

The British ship Assel, Capt. Little, arrived at San Pedro yesterday from Sydney, New South Wales. The Assel brings a cargo of coal. Consignee, Dixon, DeWolf & Co. of San Francisco. The captain reports that in 3 degrees north, 127 degrees west, he passed a large ship capsized. He could not obtain any trace of the ship's name. Masters of ships outward bound should beware of this obstruction.

The Charms of Santa Monica.

Our Eastern visitors should not fail to visit Santa Monica. They will find it a delightful place to spend a few days or weeks. Several Eastern ladies have learned to swim during January and February. Many more have greatly benefitted by the hot ocean baths, the pure air and delightful drives on the beach and up the magnificent cañons.

The Richlanders.

The entertainment and social at Pythian Castle this evening promise to call out a full family assemblage of the sons and daughters of Michigan. Ex-Gov. Begole and Mr. Barnes, an eminent lawyer from Michigan, are to be present and will speak. All residents and sojourners who are natives or former residents of Michigan, whether they belong to the society or not, are invited to be present.

Bread and Milk Thieves.

Joseph Wise was arrested by Officer Arguello at 7, a. m. yesterday, for stealing bread. Wise pleaded guilty, but sentence has not been passed. A great many people are now being annoyed by gangs of tramps who steal the bread and milk left on the doorsteps in the early morning.

THE PATRIOT MARTYR.

A National Celebration of Robert Emmet's Birthday.

On the evening of March 4th a number of young men, brought together by the invitation of P. J. O'Neill, met in the rooms of the Medical College to join in the celebration of the birthday of that world-renowned patriot and martyr to Irish liberty, Robert Emmet. This meeting was but one of a thousand such meetings held the world over wherever a few true Irish Nationalists are found. The reception-room was decorated with the tri-color (green, white and orange), or the republican flag of Ireland. On one wall, surrounded by flowers and ivy, was a picture of Emmet, beneath which was his memorable speech in the Irish and English languages. On the opposite wall was a picture of Parnell, surrounded by his co-workers in Parliament.

Dr. W. E. Lindley was appointed Chairman, after which the following programme was carried out:

Music—"America."

Speech—"Emmet's Life," P. J. O'Neill.

Music—"God Save Ireland."

Robert Emmet's speech, H. Bert. Ellis, A. B.

Original Poem—"Unwritten Epitaph," P. J. O'Neill.

Reading—"Schiller's Lines on William Tell," Wm. Thiebe.

Music, A. Valla.

Speech—"Freedom," S. Knopf.

Refreshments.

Recitation, Dr. W. E. Lindley.

Music—"Hail Columbia."

"Star-Spangled Banner," by audience.

A MERCHANT GONE.

Sudden Death of John Seymour Yesterday Morning.

John H. Seymour, the well-known senior partner in the "Grange Store," died of apoplexy at his home at 1 o'clock yesterday morning. He had been prostrated by the shock about twenty hours earlier, and remained unconscious up to the time of his death. Mr. Seymour was endeared to a large circle by his integrity and kindness, and will be generally mourned.

Deceased was born in Northville, N. Y., Jan. 28, 1831; was married in June, 1856, to Miss Kate A. Bradley (who died two years ago), and came to California in 1856, residing successively in Folsom, Oakland and Compton. In 1873 he came to this city and took charge of the Grange store, with which he has been connected ever since. He was Treasurer of the Board of Trade, and a member of Pentalpha Lodge, F. and A. M.

The funeral will take place next Wednesday or Thursday, upon the arrival of his brother from Norwalk, Ohio. The body has been embalmed by McBratney & Howry, and will lie at their rooms until the funeral.

A KNOCK-DOWN.

Two Legal Brethren Pass From Words to Blows.

There was a slight sensation in front of the principal Spring street entrance to the Temple Block shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. George W. Glowner, a young attorney, met David Lyon, a bibulous lawyer, then and there, and they had some conversation about the Lyon-Glowner law case, which later developments which Lyon denied. Glowner insisted, and Lyon made some remark about a liar. Thereupon Glowner reached out his fist forcibly against Lyon's chest, and Lyon went down on the sidewalk in a heap of coal. He made no retaliation, but swore out a warrant for Glowner, on a charge of battery. He pleaded guilty in Frank Shirtz's night, giving an account (with diagrams and a wax model of the fashion in which he will convict Mr. Glowner to-day, and then mount him on his steed. Said he: "I will go home to sleep to-morrow night without two black eyes, my name isn't Lyon. I'll just paint his face." Glowner says he will fail to take care of himself, and the by-standers will enjoy the circus.

THE ORANGE MARKET.

The First of a Series of Daily Bulletins.

After this date, if information from outside markets warrants it, the Orange Growers' Union will issue daily bulletins. Fully one-half of the oranges of this season have been marketed, and it is necessary for the large growers only to pick and push forward so as to get through by the close of the season. All small growers, of course, can hold their oranges until such time as the market will warrant their shipping. The Eastern market has been overstocked in every direction, but is easing up a little again. Prices are tending upwards. Markets are dull to-day in St. Louis and Kansas City, Chicago and St. Paul quote as follows: Navels selling, smutty, $1.75 to $2; choice, $2.50 to $3; fancy navels, $4.25 to $4.50; choice, $3.75 to $4. A San Gabriel car of oranges were sold, netting the grower $2.12½ per box, which is equivalent to $1.74½ on the tree.

AN ELECTRIC ROAD.

Col. Bowland Wants the Boyle Heights Line for One.

A very important step was outlined yesterday, which will cause Boyle Heights to prick up its ears. Col. Howland, the indefatigable, secured an option for 30 days on Myron Spence's street-railroad to Boyle Heights. The figure is $60,000. If sufficient support in the way of subscriptions is secured, and Col. Howland takes the road, he proposes to do away with the horse and electricity for motive power. His name is a strong pledge of success.

Board of Supervisors.

FRIDAY, March 5th.

On motion of Supervisor Hinds the vote by which John Hall's plans for a county jail were adopted was reconsidered, and said plans rejected.

On motion of Supervisor Lindley all bids for construction of jail were retained unopened.

Petition for removal of Jacob Metzker, road overseer, San José district, submitted and denied.

Petition of C. N. Earl to lay concrete and iron pipe along county road from county line to the Azusa granted, on condition that the pipe be laid ten feet north of the south line of said road, and at least twelve inches below the surface.

On motion the Clerk was directed to notify H. T. Gardner to remove certain obstructions in roads.

Adjourned until Saturday.

Correspondence of the Times.]

LUGONIA, March 2.—Once more this end of the valley has been deluged for several days, the monotony of the storm having been varied by an occasional volley of hail stones of considerable size; and the mountain ranges encircling the valley are white with snow clear to the front range, so that the breezes coming from that quarter are quite chilly, and if the snow remains three days after the storm clears up we can look out for frost, as it is very apt to come when the snow gets so near the valley.

The damage to ditches, flumes and bridges will probably not be so great as during the last storm, as but little repairing has been done since then. Of course the more snow we can get in the mountain cañons the better our prospects for a bountiful supply of water next summer. Most of the grain at this end of the valley needed water very much, and this timely soaking will enhance the prospects of a good crop very materially.

It would have been a novel sight for some of our Eastern friends if they had been with your correspondent while passing through old San Bernardino about the middle of February, to have heard the familiar click of a mowing machine, and to have seen a man actually cutting his first crop of alfalfa, which was cured and harvested during the warm spell which then prevailed. In fact, people are getting so they cut hay almost every month in the year.

It is rather early to forcast the fruit crop, but if we may judge from the blossoms on the apricot and peach trees the prospect seems good for a large crop, if they are not injured by a long, cold storm at the critical stage of fruit growth; one thing is certain, if there were no blossoms we could not expect fruit, but as there are blossoms in profusion, we may reasonably look for something of a crop. Even the abused moorpark is blossoming well this year.

Considerable interest is just now being manifested by the people at the east end of the valley in preparing exhibits of various kinds to forward to the Chicago citrus fair. The time for preparation is short, but they seem to realize that the opportunity for showing up the products of this section of our State are too good to let slip without making an effort in that direction. WASHINGTON.

The Defenseless Condition of Our Sea Coasts.

AT THE MERCY OF A THIRD-CLASS POWER

Some Strong Assertions from a Committee—Petitions from Los Angeles Presented by Stanford.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Senator Stanford yesterday presented three petitions to the Senate from the Board of Trade of Los Angeles—one asking for an increase of appropriation for the improvement of Wilmington harbor; another asking for the creation of a United States District Court in Southern California, and another asking for an appropriation for the erection of a Federal building in Los Angeles. Each of these petitions was referred to its appropriate committee.

OUR NEED OF NAVAL DEFENSES.

The House Committee on Naval Affairs has completed its report to accompany the bill providing for an increase of the naval establishment. It points out that the sea coast cities of the United States are absolutely at the mercy of any second-rate naval power, and that the government is without adequate means of defending its foreign or coastwise commerce. It shows that, while foreign powers are building formidable naval vessels, the United States is almost at a standstill in this particular, and says: "After studying the character of other navies, we find that we are nearly at the mercy of foreign nations; that our neighbor Brazil might exact tribute of any city along our gulf or Atlantic coast. Chili could enforce similar demands on the shores of the Pacific. The Reachnets and Aquidaban, those formidable Brazilian armored cruisers, could steam at thirteen or fourteen knots per hour from Brazil to New York in two days. They could, with impunity, pass our ports and anchor in New York harbor. But without doing that, their guns could easily throw shells into New York city from off Coney Island beach. The Chilian vessel Esmeralda carries coal enough to enable her to steam at eight knots an hour from Chili to San Francisco, without exhausting half her

ENLARGED SLEET

SATURDAY, MARCH 6, 1886.

In 1888.

Gen. B. F. Butler expresses the opinion that President Cleveland will not be renominated in 1888, for the reason that all of the active workers of the Democratic party (having been disappointed in their hopes of office) will oppose him. The General also intimates that Cleveland will not lose anything by being defeated for the nomination, since it is highly improbable that any Democrat will be elected President in 1888. No party, in his judgment, can retain power unless it knows what to do with a victory when it gets one.

The cock-eyed Son of Destiny may be right; but, nevertheless, there are indications that Cleveland is aiming to be the nominee of a Cleveland party in 1888 — a party to be composed of a segment of the present Democratic party, some renegade Republicans, and the precious Mugwumps, of course. These last cannot go straight over to the old Democratic camp—they are ashamed to do that—but will resort to the tortuous course of making for it via the Cleveland route. Mr. Cleveland's recent message of defiance to the Senate was, in the opinion of sagacious political observers, nothing less than political pronunciamento—a declaration of war, carefully designed with a view to its effect upon the next Presidential campaign, and particularly with reference to its effect upon Mr. Grover Cleveland's political fortunes. Let that course of events be watched, and see whether this "prediction will not be borne out by results. In the event of the President's breaking with his party and becoming the candidate of a Cleveland party, there will be (to say nothing of several able representatives of various side issues) no less than three "leading" candidates for the Presidency in 1888, to-wit: a Republican candidate, who will be elected; a rump Democratic candidate, claiming to be "regular," who will be defeated, and Mr. Cleveland, who will also be defeated "by a large majority."

This is the complexion which the TIMES now predicts that politics in 1888 will take on; and that there will be a rotten abroad in the land we are more than sure.

DURING the last presidential campaign the Democratic stump orators had a great deal to say in regard to the enormous surplus in the Treasury. The people were told that the Republican party was taxing them unnecessarily through the agency of the war tariff, and piling up a great surplus which was an incentive to prodigality and waste in the use of public money, if it was not an incentive also to jobbery and corruption. We were told that if the voters would "turn the rascals out," and let the reform Democrats run the machine, the tariff would undergo revision, the free list would be increased, internal revenue taxation would be reduced, raw materials would come in free of duty, and there would be no surplus allowed to collect in the national treasury, and only money enough collected to pay the expenses of the government when honestly and economically administered. These were some of the promises. Well, here comes "reformer" Secretary Manning, and in his first official report to Congress, intimates that there will be a deficit in the Treasury for the next fiscal year of over $24,000,000, and of course his estimates are based upon the receipts from customs and from internal revenue sources the same as the law now stands. Postmaster-General Vilas says that his department will be short about $7,000,000 for the next fiscal year, and altogether it looks very much as if the "reform" administration of Mr. Cleveland will be able to "get away" with all the surplus that the Democratic orators have been howling so lustily about. Mr. Manning has made but one call for bonds since he came into office, and it is safe to predict that "turning the rascals out" is not all there is in successfully managing the finances of this great nation.

University Place Items.

There is so little change and so few events of interest in this quiet suburb that your correspondent writes but occasionally. What makes it worse, some alert quill-driver "steals his thunder" before he knows it. If he should write about what don't happen, it would very likely go into the waste-basket.

Well, the Baptists, who started off quite well some months ago holding services in the College chapel, have closed their work. Although your correspondent has no proclivities in that theological direction, he nevertheless hopes they will resume, as many desire it. As it is, the Methodists have it all their own way. As we are most surely to have a populous suburb, and one of the prettiest, other denominations should not be slow, to plant themselves here without much further delay. The Presbyterians made a mistake in building their neat little church one mile and a half from the village. It will be on wheels before many years.

Presiding Elder Farnsworth, while at Elsinore in the discharge of his duties, while riding out with the pastor at that place, was thrown from the buggy in a runaway and broke his wrist. He will be laid aside from active service for several weeks. The pastor was not injured.

Rev. B. M. Beach has been hobbling on crutches for the last three weeks from a sprained ankle. He is rapidly convalescing.

Mrs. William Hodge, who has been confined to her bed for many weeks and her life entirely despaired of, is improving, and her friends have strong hopes of her recovery. She refused to submit to a surgical operation, though assured by a skillful surgeon, that speedy death would be inevitable without it. She also refuses anodynes, leaving herself in the hands of God.

Prof. Wheeler, who was compelled to resign his chair in the University and take to the mountains where the air was more congenial, has greatly improved in health. He hopes, ere long, to be able to do active work.

The walls of the new University building which rose to the third story and were discontinued by the storm of November, will again begin to rise in a few days. The work of the bod-carrier in preparing the mortar is a sure pledge. This will be pleasant news to everybody.

MRS. MORGAN'S CHOICE ART COLLECTION

A Nude Departure—The American Exhibition in London—Other Gossip From Gotham.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Many years ago a girl teaching in a country schoolhouse, earning a scanty subsistence by instilling into the minds of her young charges the rudiments of an English education, attracted the attention of the late James Morgan, who shortly afterwards made her his wife. He was then just embarking in business and organizing those steamship and railway lines which have since made his name famous in the Gulf States. He amassed a huge fortune, and on his death left his widow with an enormous fortune and but few relatives to share with her the pleasures which great wealth can confer. As an amusement, a mere device to while away the time, Mrs. Morgan began buying pictures and objects of art. The taste for "collecting" once developed grows rapidly. From buying a painting or an etching occasionally, Mrs. Morgan soon came to consider her sole business in life the acquisition of great stories and treasures of every class. Silver, porcelain, pottery, stones, paint and printer's ink, each and all were levied upon for contributions to that enormous store of precious and beautiful objects which filled to overflowing her unpretentious house fronting Madison Square. She traveled much in Europe in search of paintings and curios, and many a European dealer will mourn the death of this most liberal patron of art. Her great wealth enabled Mrs. Morgan to buy with almost no thought of the price, and she therefore in many cases paid much more for a painting than it could possibly bring at a sale. But in her dealings with artists and picture sellers Mrs. Morgan was most fortunate, as is shown by the fact that in her great collection, now on exhibition, there is not a single bad picture. It is probably the best private collection in the United States.

When, shortly after Mrs. Morgan's death some months ago, it was announced that her collection would be sold at public auction, the whole world of art-lovers was put on the qui vive. Everything possible has been done to make this sale one of the greatest art events of the age. A number of members of the New York Etching Club were engaged to prepare etchings for the illustration of the edition de luxe of the catalogue, which is a magnificent volume, selling to subscribers at $22. The art columns of the newspapers have been full of paragraphs regarding the richness of the collection, and so, when the announcement was made that the private collection was open to the public, all the world and his wife flocked to the galleries of the American Association, where the show is now on exhibition. These galleries are the largest art rooms in New York, with the exception of the Metropolitan Museum, yet they will not afford room enough for the exhibition of all the precious objects that this woman had packed into a narrow city house. Even before the opening of the exhibition it was thought of the beauty of the paintings comes the question in the mind of every visitor, "Where did she put these things?" It is a striking illustration of the isolation of city life that a collection like this could have existed for years unknown to even the people living next door to the owner.

In character the collection is rather heterogeneous. It is rather a combination of the materials for several collections than a symmetrical collection in itself. But the paintings seem to have been purchased with a fixed purpose. They are almost entirely from the easels of French artists, and form a most excellent index to the school of modern French art. Corot, Millet, Meissonier, Bouguereau, Detaille, De Neuville, Vibert, Henner and Rousseau are all there with two or more canvases each. In Corots the collection is particularly rich, and each of the four or five soft, dreamy landscapes from his brush is daily admired by hundreds of art lovers. Henner is represented by four pictures. Three of them are nudes, and call to mind the criticism of a writer in the February Harpers, who says that Henner's pictures always remind him of the nursery rhyme:

"Mother, may I go out to swim?
Yes, my darling daughter;
Hang your clothes on a hickory limb
But don't go near the water."

The scoff of this critic seems well founded as regards most of Henner's pictures. His nymphs are always prepared for the bath, but never quite immersed. One picture from his brush, however, is free from any charge of sensuousness. A girl's head draped with a bright scarlet scarf hangs in a retired corner, and is always surrounded with an admiring crowd. The profile is pure Greek, the complexion pearls and rubies, and the eyes look with a calm, steady glare as far from the usual suggestiveness of Henner's paintings as lilies are from dandelions.

But to describe the pictures of the Morgan collection in detail would be an almost endless task, though a pleasant one, as it is enough to say of it that it is by far the finest private collection in the United States, and the privilege of seeing it is one of the greatest pleasures that a visitor can have.

I noticed by the papers last week that the House Committee on Foreign Affairs had reported unfavorably the bill providing for an official exhibit at the American Exhibition in London. This is greatly to be regretted because the advantages to be gained from such an exhibit are immense. Still the managers of the exhibition are not to be cast down. I called at the office of the Exhibition Company the other day and was told by Mr. Speed, the secretary, that they felt quite confident of securing State exhibits either by the aid of State legislatures or through private enterprise. In the agricultural States the matter has been taken up by the land companies and railways. The postponement has given a year's work in, and the chances for a creditable display of American resources are excellent. The managers don't propose to confine themselves to the purely instructive side of the matter either. They are arranging for a series of athletic contests between Americans any Englishmen that will probably attract a good deal of attention in the sporting world. But of this more anon.

General Hancock's Career.

THE Boston Transcript, in an article on Hancock, says:

"In the battles of the Peninsular campaign he showed dash and a capability for handling large bodies of men that made him a marked man in those ill-starred operations. But though he fought well in subsequent campaigns, his conduct at Gettysburg is the great episode of his career. There, though he did his whole duty on the field, his high military qualities manifested themselves in the advice he gave when carried to the rear, wounded, to Gen. Meade, to 'let the whole line advance,' in words and under conditions almost identical with those of Wellington.

"The great charge of Lee's army, its supreme effort, had not only failed, but had been disastrously repulsed. The brave column which Pickett led had streamed back to their supports, torn by shot and shell, virtually out of the combat. Hancock thought he saw the great opportunity of the war to crush the rebellion on a pitched field. Lee's army had sustained a repulse such as it had never known. Lee had staked everything on the hazard, and had lost. Had Hancock been in command, the Union line, with fixed bayonets, flushed with a great victory and with all the conquering force of triumph, would have swarmed upon the rebel position on the heels of Pickett's retreating veterans."

A $10,000 Stud.

Have you seen the celebrated stud colt that G. J. Griffith recently purchased in San Francisco? He is one of the largest trotting stallions on the Pacific Coast. The horse Gen. Crook was sired by Champion Knox out of Irish Kitty. English Kitty was imported by Spaulding Bros., of Boston. She was said to be about seven-eighths thoroughbred and a natural trotter. She was an old campaigner in the New England States and a great favorite, being called "Old Railroad," from her great bottom.

Both the sire of Gen. Crook and his dam English Kitty were br

NEW

—FOR—

Los Angeles City and County

Having had a large experience in the Directory Publishing Business, the undersigned respectfully announce to the citizens of Los Angeles that they are engaged in a most thorough canvass of the city and county for the names of residents for their new Directory. We ask the co-operation of all in the work of making the directory as near perfect as the rapidly increasing and incessantly changing population will permit.

The book will contain a complete Street Directory, a Horse Car Directory and Cable Car Directory.

Full particulars of all Churches, Schools and Societies, together with the information always to be found in first-class city directories.

NEW FEATURES.

In addition to the usual matter of a Directory, there will be a full description of all the Public and Private Institutions of the city and county, as well as a truthful, unbiased Sketch of the Leading Business Houses and business interests.

A NEW COUNTY MAP.

Will be given with each copy of the Directory. The map, prepared by the well-known publishers, J. H. Stevenson, of Chicago, will show its margins the names, locations and address of every subscriber to and advertiser in the Directory, and will be suitable for hanging on the wall.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED COPIES

Of the book and map have been contracted for. The work to be done in the very best style of the art. Of these, 150 copies will be distributed in the hotels and reading rooms of the Pacific Coast, and 150 copies to the leading hotels of the Eastern States and Canada. This placing before the whole country the Eastern States and Canada. This placing before the whole country in a handsomely bound, substantial form, the business and general interests of Los Angeles, where it will remain for two years.

We ask a liberal patronage from the business men, pledging them to issue a Directory of which they will be justly proud.

Our agents are all gentlemen of known character and ability, and we bespeak for them a cordial reception.

Persons or firms making changes in business or residence after they have been canvassed, should report the changes to us, and they shall be carefully attended to.

THROWN OUT.

The Supervisors Spill John Hall's Milk.

HIS JAIL PLANS WILL NOT BE USED.

Some Wasp-ish Resolutions — To Readvertise or No — Possible Libel Suits, Etc.

Yesterday the Board of Supervisors met at the usual hour, and the fact that the jail plans were again to come up brought in quite a number of interested parties. Mr. Macy was in the chair and called the Board to order; and on motion it was decided to go into executive session. This was a disappointment to the crowd present, and they sadly withdrew. The reporters were also making preparations to leave when Supervisor Hinds remarked that there was no objection to their remaining, and the other Supervisors concurring, the scribes were not included in the general exodus.

The doors being closed, Supervisor Hinds presented the following resolution which was read by the clerk:

WHEREAS, It appears from facts in evidence before this Board, that John Hall, whose plans for a county jail for the county of Los Angeles have been conditionally adopted, has been a party to the circulation of baseless reports, to the effect that money had been used with officers of the court and members of this Board in connection with such jail plans; and

WHEREAS, The action of this Board in accepting said plans was largely due to the advice of one Holcomb, who represented to said Board, and induced said Board to believe that he was then and there an unbiased expert, giving impartial advice to this Board, whereas he was, as this Board verily believes, the secret agent and advocate of said Hall; and

WHEREAS, Said Hall has succeeded in procuring the adoption of his said plans and specifications by imposition practiced upon this Board, as above stated; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the order heretofore made on the 8th day of January, 1886, by this Board, adopting said plans and specifications of said Hall, and which said order is recorded in book 9, page 74, minutes of the Board of Supervisors, be and the same is hereby rescinded and said plans and specifications are hereby rejected.

The resolution as it appears above is not exactly the same as it was first presented. It was deemed by the District Attorney a little too strong a denunciation of Hall, and he suggested several modifications which would prevent the possibility of a suit for damages. Supervisor Hinds thought Mr. Hall had shown himself unfit to perform public work. He had attempted to bring odium upon the Board, and in every way had conducted himself in a disgraceful manner.

Supervisor Lindley thought the resolution did not need any modification. He said that it gave the simple truth, and there was no occasion to suppress it. If a man is unfit for a position, as Mr. Hall has proved to be, why not say so in plain language?

Mr. Holston urged that the meaning would be conveyed quite as effectively by the modification he suggested, and at the same time the danger of a suit would be prevented.

The Board finally agreed to the alterations as prepared by the District Attorney.

The question of re-advertising for bids then came up.

Mr. Foord said he could not see the necessity for re-advertising for bids. The Board had decided that only two of those presented were worthy of adoption—those of Messrs. Hall and Edelman. The importance of speedy action cannot be overlooked, and much valuable time would be lost by re-advertising.

Mr. Hinds excepted to the remark that the Board was limited to the plans of Hall and Edelman. He favored those presented by Mr. Young.

Mr. Macy replied that Young's plans were too expensive.

Supervisor Lindley said that Young's first plan was superior.

Supervisor Ross remarked that he voted for Hall's plans because he thought them the best. He still considered them the best, but he would rather have some other person than Hall carry them out.

Mr. Hinds remarked to Mr. Ross that his constituents would not approve of the use of Hall's plans after what had transpired.

Mr. Ross replied that his constituents had not seen any of the plans, and therefore could not be the judges. Supervisor Lindley said the people would not allow Hall's plans to be used. Public opinion is strong on that point. Mr. Ross insisted that Hall should be set aside, but his plans be placed in the hands of some one in whom people had confidence.

Supervisor Hinds said: "In that case Mott's $700 would have to be paid. I am averse to playing into the hands of Mott and his faction. I have my reputation to protect."

Supervisor Macy said in many respects Edelman's plans were preferable. There would be a saving of seventy-five feet front by adopting them, and space will be an important consideration when the courthouse is built.

Mr. Holton said there was no law to require the Board to readvertise for bids, or, indeed, to advertise for bids at all. They could get any person to build the jail that they chose to.

The closed door executive session and the doors were opened to the public.

The Board was again called to order, and Mr. Hinds brought up the resolution and moved its adoption.

After it had been read by the Clerk, Mr. McKinley, counsel for Mr. Hall, asked to be heard.

Mr. Macy said the time of the Board was too valuable to be consumed in listening to attorneys, but if Mr. McKinley would be brief he might proceed.

Mr. McKinley then proceeded in a vigorous manner to dismiss the resolution. He said its adoption was by no means justified by what had occurred. The only evidence that the plans had been adopted by fraudulent representation was Hall's apparent connection with Holcomb, who was examined as an expert. It was not, the speaker thought, claimed that Holcomb was uninterested, and it was clearly shown that he had influenced members outside, except by a talk with one of the members. Hall indeed signed a paper acquitting the Board of any corrupt connection han with the affair. The only charge of the kind came from Gen. Stanton, who had come before the Board and told one story one day and entirely a different one another day. "The evidence given by Bonton," said the speaker, "I believe to be untrue; in fact, it was a tissue of fabrications." He continued with the statement that Hall had been ill-treated, and asked that the matter be carried out, even if the supervision of them be taken from Hall. He charged that Stanton and Mott were seeking revenge by getting the plans thrown out.

At this point Mr Macy cut short Mr. McKinley's remarks with the statement that the Board had heard enough.

Mr. McKinley withdrew with the intimation that his client would look to the courts for redress.

The resolution was then unanimously adopted by the Board, and the clerk instructed to return the plans.

THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL.

Patriotism and Heroism of the Jews.

Following is a synopsis of Rev. Dr. Schreiber's lecture last night:

The annals of impartial history bear testimony to the fact that the Jews were ever ready to sacrifice, not only their individual interest, but also their lives, for the welfare of the country in which they lived. The prophet Jeremiah said: "Strive after the welfare of the land in which you dwell."

In Persia the Jews were faithful and brave soldiers to Cyrus I, Alexander the Great, Antiochus the Great, Demetrius and his successors in Syria and Egypt. Ptolemy, Philometer and Cleopatra committed their kingdoms to Jewish generals of their army, namely, to Onias and Dositheus.

The heroism of the Macabees and the bravery of the Jews who struggled for years against the Romans is attested even by Tacitus.

In the middle ages, although persecuted, they fought the battles of their persecutors. The Jews in France defended Arles with their lives against the Burgundians in the year 508, as did the Jews of Naples when the city was besieged by Belizar in 536 B. C.

In the late civil war the Jews evinced their love of America in an unexampled degree. Col. H. of the Sixty-sixth Volunteer Regiment, that took part in many battles, had mainly Jews in its ranks. One of the Masonic regiments was also principally composed of Jews, one-half of the line officers of the Sixth New York regiment were Jews, so were most of the officers of Col. Einstein's Philadelphia regiment, and so were Generals Lyon and Neuman, who fell on the battle-field of honor. In the Union army were 5000 Jewish soldiers, the majority of them mechanics with large families to support, which they had to commend to the charge or charity of others. An impartial participant of the cruel war wrote: "There in the forests of Virginia are descendants of Patriarch Abraham, behold them now in the new world shedding their blood for the maintenance of liberty in this Republic."

King Philip the Handsome had 3000 Jewish soldiers in his army against Count Gep of Flanders. The Jews of Burgos remained faithful to King Don Pedro in Spain against the usurper Don Henry, who was in power. In the Jewish Old (new) Synagogue at Fracce a standard can be seen to-day which was presented to the Jews by the Emperor, Ferdinand III, in recognition of the heroism which they had displayed in keeping at bay the Swedish besiegers in the year 1648.

Hardenburg, the Prussian Chancellor, in a letter to Count von Grote (January 4, 1815), said: "The young men of the Jewish faith presented instances of true heroism and glorious braving of the war." Even Edwin Smith acknowledges that the "blood of Israel profusely flowed in the fields of Waterloo." In the Franco-Prussian war (1870-71) the number of the Jewish soldiers amounted to 4000 in Germany, and doubtless to a similar percentage in France.

Statistics the Jewish population of England is, there were 2,000 volunteer soldiers of Jewish persuasion enrolled in the British army in 1878. Yea, even the down-trodden Roumanian Jews volunteered in large numbers, and fought at the side of their oppressors in the war with Turkey in 1877, and but a few months ago the Jews of Bulgaria formed a volunteer regiment in defense of their country.

Thus it is historically proven that the Jews have contributed in all ages and climes to the welfare even of such countries where they were persecuted. They were and are Jews only by religion, good Frenchmen in France, Englishmen in England, Germans in Germany, American in this country in weal and woe, in joy and sorrow.

THE RAILROADS.

Another Tremendous Cut — Other Items of Interest.

The ensanguined knife went in to the hilt again yesterday, and another gory cut in passenger rates to the East was made. This time it was the first-class limited that suffered. The first-class limited rates announced last night were as follows:

To Missouri river points (Omaha and Kansas City)	$15
To Chicago or St. Louis	20
To New York	35

This is cheaper than staying at home. The outlook is for more gore to-day, as the agents are just "getting on their muscle."

NOTES.

John L. Truslow, the popular General Western Passenger Agent of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé, came down from San Francisco yesterday, and will stop here a day or two. He says the Santa Fé is feeling very well, thank you, and is bound to come out on top.

General Manager D. B. Robinson, of the Atlantic & Pacific, arrived on his private car yesterday.

The express from the north was two hours late yesterday. That from the east was on time.

The L. A. & S. G. V. has suspended its levee building, having run out of lumber and piles.

The roads are all doing a good passenger business. The Santa Fé is selling 160 through tickets a day in San Francisco.

Geo. T. Nicholson, Assistant General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the A. T. & S. F., with headquarters at Topeka, is in the city to remain a few days.

The advertisement of the great Short Line, in this morning's TIMES, that it will carry passengers East at lower rates than any competitor, seems to announce the crisis of the war. No cut will be surprising to-day.

Tourists, Make a Note On't.

The trip by San Gabriel Valley Railroad and carriage through Pasadena, Rose's, Baldwin's and Sierra Madre Villa requires only a short drive to view the charming scenery and sights of the valley and foothills, the famous orange groves, vineyards and gardens of Paradise. Railroad to Pasadena avoids the tiresome thirty-mile drive from Los Angeles. Our round trip only $2.75, including lunch at the Villa.

Information was received yesterday of the death of Philip Lauth, one of the proprietors of the Philadelphia Brewery, and an old resident of Los Angeles. Mr. Lauth was the victim of consumption, and went to the Sandwich Islands some months ago in hopes of securing relief from the climate. His death occurred there.

AN UNNATURAL MOTHER.

She Does Not Wish to Have Her Child Rescued.

Maud Preston, the prostitute so addicted to chloroform drunks, was up before Judge Cheney, yesterday afternoon, to show cause why the petition of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children should not be granted—asking the guardianship of her seven-year-old son, whom she is bringing up in familiarity with her life of sin. She made no attempt to deny that she is a prostitute, and of drunken habits, but—with the sudden "affection" of such parents when someone proposes to save their children—declared that she would put the boy in the Orphan Asylum, but didn't want anyone else to do it. The objection made by the ladies to this is that, should she put the boy there, she could go and take him out again —whenever she got drunk or the whim seized her—and bring him back to his vicious associations. She also tried to make out that she did not keep the boy with her, but supported him in respectable families. The police state, however, that she has kept the child with her in her infamy, much of the time; and it is known that she uses him to send for chloroform for her sprees. Stories of unmentionable depravity are told of her. Officer Hoagui and ex-Officer Stoermer testified yesterday to her character and habits. Judge Cheney took the case under advisement. Meantime the unfortunate child is in charge of the court.

The case of the Society was presented yesterday by Sheldon Borden and Mr. Anderson.

Great Annual Reduction and Clearing Sale

A VISIT ON

Wednesday, March 10

You will find it greatly to your advantage to come as early in the day as possible, as many of the lines advertised are necessarily small.

Yours truly,

J. M. HALE & CO.

50 Dozen Ladies' 5-Button Scalloped Topped Kid Gloves at 50c.

That HALE & Co. can name lower prices on any one line of goods where the public are being misled by peculiarly worded advertisements as appears in our daily papers, will be demonstrated on WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, by placing on our counters the above line of Kid Gloves.

We wish to add that HALE & CO. HAVE THE EXCLUSIVE SALE OF THE GENUINE CENTEMERI KID GLOVE for this city. Some of our competitors, jealous of the matchless reputation of the genuine goods, are advertising a SO-CALLED "CENTEMERI CUT" Kid Glove (while no such thing exists). It is hardly necessary for us to say that the cut of the glove is no indication of its value. We simply offer you the GENUINE goods, and a line of the so-called "Centemeri CUT" goods in all shades and sizes at 50c per pair, and in doing so we take no unfair method of misleading the people or undermining the good name of any STANDARD GOODS offered by our neighbors.

CONSUMPTION

And all the various diseases of the

HEAD, THROAT AND CHEST

Including the

EYE, EAR AND HEART

Successfully treated by

M. HILTON WILLIAMS,

D., M. C. P. S. O.,

275 N. MAIN ST.,

Next Diamond House, Los Angeles, Cal.

For sixteen years proprietor of the Detroit Throat and Lung Hospital, and over 70,000 cases treated.

All diseases of the respiratory organs treated by the most improved Medicated Inhalations, thus bringing the remedies into direct contact with the disease in part. These with in all cases combined with proper constitutional remedies for the liver, stomach, nervous system, blood, etc. The efficacy of this system of practice is attested by the fact that out of 5000 persons treated in Los Angeles during the past two years only twelve have died, and those had treatment only with a view of prolonging life.

In order to convince our Eastern afflicted friends of the necessity of direct medication in Catarrh, Throat and Pulmonary Diseases, in addition to our beautiful climate, we give a few testimonials from those already cured.

HON. ERASTUS KELLY, Montreal, Canada, says: The Southern California climate is ahead of anything I have ever enjoyed, and yet it was insufficient to cure me of rubercular consumption and bronchitis, until assisted by Dr. William's Medicated Inhalations, which did the work in five months from the time I began treatment.

JAMES STARTLING, Esq., San Francisco, Cal., says: In the year 1877 I was taken with a fell cold, which settled upon my chest and produced consumption, which so greatly reduced me in flesh and weight. I lost in all 73 pounds. I came to Southern California as a last resort, and found the expectoration increased, strength failing, night sweats constant, and I tired the worst, but having met one of Dr. Williams' patients, Mr. R. Lewis, formerly connected with the New W. W. Sewing Machine Co., of Los Angeles, who told me what wonderful things Dr. Williams had done for him, I resolved to try once more, and to my surprise I gained 31 pounds in one month, and in four months I was as well as ever.

MISS. MARTHY LANGDON, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, says: Dr. Williams cured me of catarrh in three months, after suffering for 4 years.

MISS AMELIA HARRISON, Portland, Oregon, says: I was cured of catarrh by Dr. Williams in two and a half months, after suffering for ten years.

JOHN HEMINWAY, Chicago, Ills., says: For 16 years I had been badly afflicted with bronchial catarrh. Dr. Williams cured me in five months, while I was a temporary resident at Los Angeles.

WM. CLEVELAND, Esq., Dubuque, Iowa, says: For 30 years I was a sufferer from catarrh. Dr. Williams cured me in me until I had lost all sense of smell. I also coughed a good deal from my lungs. In visiting Los Angeles I was persuaded by my physician, which I did. The first inhalation gave me great relief, and in one month I returned home entirely cured of that most disgusting disease.

WALTER SPELLOUR, Esq., Kingston, Canada, says: Consumption is hereditary in both my father's and mother's family, and when I was about 24 years old insidious consumption began to show itself in me. I began a hacking cough, had night sweats, chills and fever every day, and began losing flesh. I went to Los Angeles in the hope of a cure by climatic changes, but with no benefit. I found I required more than climate and placed myself under the care of Dr. Williams, who in a few months had me entirely cured. I would advise all who are similarly afflicted to try Dr. Williams' Medicated Inhalations, as they saved my life.

The very best of references given by consent of those who live in this city and are entirely cured.

CONSULTATION FREE.

Those who desire to consult with me in regard to their cases or to location as to climate, had better call at my office for consultation and examination, but if impossible to do so can write for a copy of my Medical Treatise, containing a list of questions. Address,
